Registration for University-Recommended
Scholarship

(for International Students)

Global Promotion Division
Student Affairs and International Strategy Department

3 April 2026

(1) About Data Registration for University-Recommended Scholarships

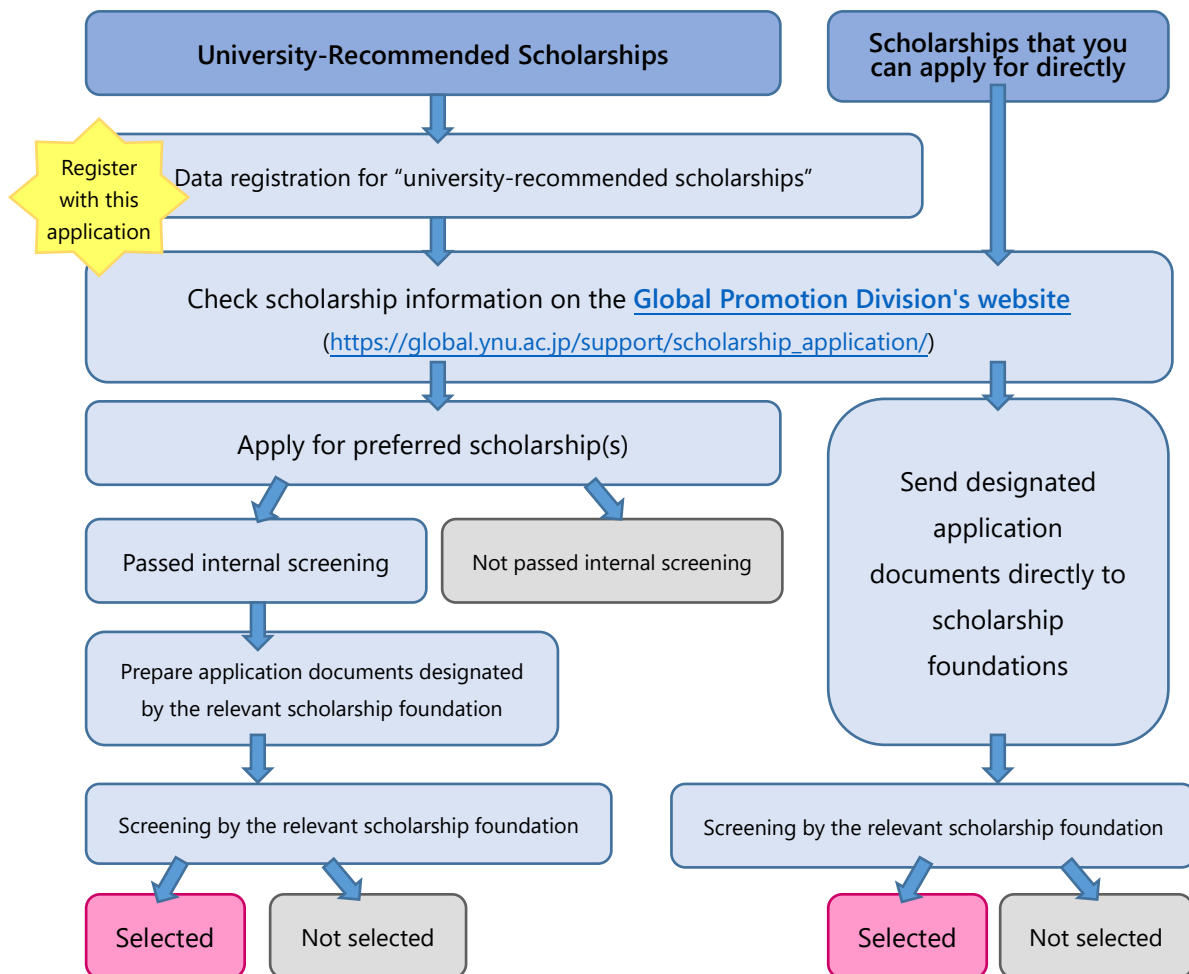

Two types of scholarships are available for privately financed international students: University-recommended scholarships, which require a recommendation from the university for you to apply, and scholarships you can apply for directly, which allow students to apply directly to scholarship foundations.

Data registration for university-recommended scholarships is a program for registering the basic data used in internal screening for scholarships requiring the university's recommendation.

If you wish to apply for any of the Yokohama National University (YNU) financial support programs (Data Registration for university-recommended scholarships) listed below, please read the instructions in these application guidelines thoroughly and apply within the designated period.

[Important] You cannot apply for a scholarship simply by completing the data registration for university-recommended scholarships. After registration, please check the scholarship information provided on the BBS for Current Students or Global Promotion Division's website and then apply for your preferred scholarship(s) through the designated online form.

Scholarship Application Flow Chart

(2) Registration Period

This registration applies to scholarship applications from the Spring semester AY2026 to the beginning of Fall semester AY2026. Make sure to register your data if you wish to apply for university-recommended scholarships for this period. Please note that there are some scholarships that open their application in the AY2026 even if the scholarship payments start in or after April 2027.

(3) Application Eligibility

To apply for data registration for university-recommended scholarships, you are required to meet all of the following eligibility requirements.

- 1) Regular YNU undergraduate or graduate student as of April 1, 2026.
- 2) Have or going to have a "Student" status of residence as prescribed by Japanese law (Immigration Control and Refugee Recognition Act)
- 3) The "Student" status of residence mentioned in (2) must be valid for the entire semester or be expected to be renewed.

※MEXT scholarship students who will become privately funded students starting October 2026 are also eligible to apply.

(4) How to apply

Please submit the Form below to apply during application period.

(5) Screening Method

[Undergraduate programs and master's programs]

1) New Students (in the 1st semester of 1st year)

The rankings of applicants are determined based on their entrance examination results.

2) Current students (in the 2nd semester of 1st year or above)

The rankings of applicants are determined based on their academic performance (total GPA through the last semester).

[Doctoral program]

1) New Students (in the 1st semester of 1st year)

The rankings of applicants are determined based on their entrance examination results.

2) Current students (in the 2nd semester of 1st year or above)

The rankings of applicants are determined based on their academic performance, including the publication of peer-reviewed papers and the receipt of awards, as well as their grades for earned credits.

(6) Application Results

There is no announcement of the applicants ranking for data registration for university-recommended scholarships.

Completing data registration for university-recommended scholarships is not enough for applying for a scholarship. After registration, please check the scholarship information provided on the Global Promotion Division's website and apply for your preferred scholarship(s) through the designated online form. Notification of the internal screening results for individual scholarships will be sent by e-mail only to those who pass the screening. See p. 1 for the scholarship application flow chart.
